Dear Folks,

I have been given permission to send you the an essay on racism in obstetrical units in the United States. It was written by my friend Ann Weinstein, whose work I have edited for several years, especially her book on prenatal development published by Norton. Racism is systemic in the United States and this essay with its excellent references shows us what is happening in hospitals when black women give birth to their babies. This is where my energy and attention has been for many years.

Warmly, Michael
